

China Through Photographs: From Beijing to Shanghai

This book exhibits hundreds of images from a trip-of-a-lifetime in China's largest cities. The journey begins in Beijing, and then goes briefly north to the Gobi desert, and then back south again to former capital Nanjing and finally cosmopolitan Shanghai. Stops in beautiful Hangzhou, with its expansive West Lake and Suzhou, with its UNESCO listed gardens and local storytelling song performances are also included. Everything from architecture, scenery and tourist sites to food, people and shopping is displayed through hundreds of gorgeous photographs, captured on a basic point-and-shoot digital camera, just as you'd see them if you were walking around yourself - absolutely no editing, filters, special lenses. All photographs may be reproduced for any purposes, provided appropriate source referencing.
